

CASE STUDY

Impact Group NSW has extensive experience with the restoration of building facades, including heritage projects.

TERMINUS HOTEL

In the heart of Pyrmont, the Terminus Hotel is one of Sydney's oldest pubs. The existing hotel had been closed and boarded up for over three decades. The hotel underwent an extensive restoration that respects its rich local history.

Impact Group NSW was engaged to provide surface restoration services, restoring this heritage building to its former glory.

CHALLENGE

To expose the original features of this heritage building by removing multiple layers of lead-based paint without damaging the original brick and render facade.

Client

Peloton Group

Location

Pymont, NSW

Job Value

$80,000+

RESULTS

Multiple layers of paint were removed to reveal the stunning original brickwork of this heritage building.

SOLUTION

Impact Group NSW used the Peelaway paint removal system to remove the multiple layers of paint from the external brickwork and render. This system provided a dust-free process with no impact to the original surface.

1

Lead Paint Removal

With the use of specialised equipment and products, all lead based paints can be successfully removed without damaging the underlying surface or contaminating the surrounding environment.